

What should I do if I have been tested for COVID-19 and I am waiting for my results?

- You should quarantine yourself until your test results are available at which time you will be given further instructions on how to proceed based on your test results.
- Coffey County physicians also recommend that all members living in your home also quarantine until your test results are known.

I have tested positive for COVID-19, what do I need to do to protect others?

- You should self-isolate at home for a least 7 days from the time your symptoms began and until you are symptom free without the use of medications and are feeling better for at least 72 hours.

A member living in my home has tested positive for COVID-19, what should I do?

- All members living in the home with the person who has tested positive for COVID-19 should self-quarantine, and continue to self-quarantine for at least 14 days after the person diagnosed with COVID-19 is symptoms free.
- If you develop signs and symptoms of COVID-19 during that time you should assume that you also have COVID-19 and isolate yourself for at home for at least 7 days from the time your symptoms began and until you are symptom free without the use of medications and are feeling better for at least 72 hours. Please call your medical care provider if you develop signs and symptoms that need medical attention, or in an emergency call 911. Be sure to notify your healthcare team that you have been living in the same home with a person who has confirmed COVID-19.

I had close contact with someone who does not live in my home, but has tested positive for COVID-19, what should I do?

- Non-household contacts who have had close contact with a positive COVID-19 patient should self-quarantine for 14 days from the date of last contact with the positive person.
- Note: Close contact is considered being within 6 foot of the person for greater than 10 minutes. For example, riding in car for an extend period of time would be close contact. Passing by someone in the grocery store would not be close contact.
